

Uh-oh! Vampire Bunnies!

Underline the interjections.

Wow! It's a vampire bunny.

Uh-oh! It's a hundred vampire bunnies.

Stop, vampire bunnies!

Hey, help me get away from these vampire bunnies!

Oops! I tripped.

Ouch! A vampire bunny bit my arm.

Well, I'm sure I'll be fine.

Yikes, I'm not feeling so well.

Zoinks, I'm a vampire bunny!

Yum. Carrots taste delicious.

Interjections

are words of protest, command, or excitement.

They can stand alone as a sentence with a punctuation mark, or they can be followed by a comma in a longer sentence.

Examples:

Stop! This isn't the right movie theater.

Oh no, my sandwich is soggy!
